I have tested this and it works for me. Aberrant intramolecular hydrogen bonding in the dark state of photoactive bacteriochlorophylls. Porphyrins and chlorins are a structurally diverse class of natural and synthetic molecules that play important roles in vision. Chlorophylls, which are the main pigments of the photosynthetic apparatus in green plants and certain bacteria, have the unusual property of being able to change conformation from the light-absorbing state to the photoprotected state (green state) upon exposure to light. This unusual photoinduced isomerization is responsible for light-harvesting by photosystem I in purple bacteria. The photoinduced isomerization mechanism for chlorophylls has been characterized, but the details of the mechanism are still unclear. Here we report the first experimental characterization of the dark-state structure of the simplest bacteriochlorophyll, the two-ring bacteriopheophytin, which was isolated from a nonphotosynthetic bacter

The band have a natural cohesion, playing their own variation of boogie-woogie rhythm guitar (no complex chord changes), a sturdy and dominant bass line and snare on every song. And not too many lyrics (no Bob Dylan obsession here), no count-offs, no reverb and minimal key changes on the vocal.Joan Van Arc Joan Van Arc (born 1960) is a Belgian author and playwright of Vietnamese origin.
